

Kappeler Institute USA Study Partners Program

What are Study Partners?

The Study Partners Program is a service of the KI USA. It is a self-organizing, self-directing, voluntary association of individuals. Partners provide structure to support each other's individual study in Science. Study partners may choose to study together, study the same material separately at their own pace, or may merely contact each other occasionally to discuss issues that come up during study.

New students: Please do not expect study partners to answer your questions about Science. These questions are best directed to the staff at KI USA—we are happy to assist you with them.

Affiliation of Study Partners with KI USA

Kappeler Institute USA has no affiliation with other individuals or groups. KI USA is committed to assisting students who wish to study Kappeler's works and, toward this end, we provide a venue for Kappeler students to contact each other through our Study Partner Program. However, study partners operate completely independently of KI USA and are legally and financially responsible for their own activities.

KI USA Study Partner program

KI USA Keeps a Study Partner List, a list of individuals who are looking for study partners and are willing to be contacted. Each has given permission for KI USA to publish their name and contact information.

To add your name to the Study Partner List:

1. Please fill out the Study Partner Request Form and return it to KI USA. We require your signed permission before releasing any information to others.
2. When KI USA receives your form, we will add your name to the KI USA Study Partner List. The updated list will then be distributed to everyone on the list.

Your name can be removed at any time by contacting KI USA.
